Departure for Wolf Ridge

News and Updates

Religion: We learned that we can trust the almighty God, Creator and Father, to provide and protect us in every situation, just as he watched over Abram in his travels and battles. Though our loads are heavy, we know that God has provided the only way to salvation by his grace.

English: The students are wrapping up their first writing assignments about favorite foods. Using the writing process, I have read about some crispy, saucy, salty, and savory foods. Needless to say I've been a bit hungrier this week.

Reading: We finished reading Number the Stars this week. The students were torn by the deaths needed to free the Jews and just want to know what happens next! I believe they enjoyed our first book of the year and can't wait to see what projects come in response next week.

Reminders...

- Wolf Ridge is next week! Make sure you are checking your packing list and that you have all the supplies needed.
- The Social Studies Fair is Oct. 27. Be on the lookout for materials concerning this project.
- Two contests were announced this week. Scott County has a Poster Contest with entries due on Nov. 15. Scholastic Publishing has a Poetry Contest with entries due on Nov. 8. More information will be provided about this contests.
- G.I.G.A.T.T! (Ask your child what it means)

Social Studies: In Social Studies, we studied the hot, humid, high, and horribly dry places of the world while covering climate patterns. We also discussed the natural resources of the world and how we can play our part in conservation and recycling efforts. On Monday, we will have our first chapter test and then begin work on the Social Studies Fair Projects.

Math: Our mathematicians solved more story problems, tallied surveys, counted on number lines, and rearranged simple equations. The students also took their first Dibles test of the year on Thursday.

Science: Your children are growing plant experts! We classified our seed plants as angiosperms and gymnosperms, dicots and monocots, and discovered the purpose of flowers - they're not just for Mr. Henning to tuck behind his ear after recess! The students enjoyed identifying plants out in the flower garden and splitting beans to look at the structure of a seed.

Jr. Choir/Music: The Jr. Choir is all prepared for their debut on Sunday! I hope to see everyone there with their children. The 6th graders are excited to add instruments to their upcoming song for church, while the 5th graders also started working on their first class song for October. Meanwhile, we kept the beat with claps and a song sung down by the banks with the bullfrogs. :)

Other: Our 6th grade girls played their last B-team volleyball game ever this week. The cross country team had its first meet on Friday, and we prepared sheep for Pastor Appreciation Month in October.

Teacher's Note: September was a great first month! I appreciate the support from parents and students alike. I cherish the bonding moments that I have had with every child. As October begins, remember to keep persevering for God has blessed us with every day! "I thank my God every time I remember you." (Philippians 1:3-11)
