News and Updates

End of 3rd Quarter: After three quarters of teaching 5th-6th grade, I can confidently say I still love it! :) It certainly has its challenges but I am happy the Lord has led me to this position. I am also happy to be staying at Trinity! With only one quarter left in the school year, the students will really need to buckle down and work hard to get their grades up. Let's have a great ending to the year!

Religion: In our Christlight lessons, David's kindness to Saul and his mourning over Saul's death. Our Faith Foundations lessons focused on the Fifth Petition. In this petition, we learn what sins are and ask God to forgive our sins and move us to forgive the sins of our neighbor.

English: Last week, it was all about the friendly letter. This week was all about the business letter. Each student typed and sent a business letter of inquiry to a Chamber of Commerce in the city of their choosing.

Reading: A Single Shard: We read through chapters 3-5 this week and learned more about the pottery industry in Korea during this time period. The plot begins to thicken as the emissary comes to Tree-Ear's town with the task of handing out a royal commission to the person with the best pottery.

Reminders...

- TCFAF! Please be at St. Croix by 10:20 AM. We will warm up in the library at 10:40 and sing in the chapel at 11:00. Stick around in the afternoon to support those who are singing and playing their instrument. It should be an awesome day!
- The Silent Auction is next Friday! RSVP's are due by Sunday. Be sure to dress in your old school prom gear!
- In the first picture of the newsletter, you'll see Maggie and Ethan sharing their talents during our 6-8th grade music class on Friday. It was good for them to play in front of people and get some of the jitters out of the way!
- Legacy Sunday! Don't miss out on the Campaign Kick-Off Celebration in the Gym on Sunday at 5:00. It promises to be a great event that will give everyone who attends some helpful background information about our project and campaign without asking or pressuring people for gifts.

Math: The 5th graders studied negative numbers, adding/subtracting whole numbers with decimal numbers, and then simplifying their answers. The 6th graders studied angle measures of triangles and quadrilaterals and converted fractions, decimals, and percents.

Social Studies: The first half of the week was spent reviewing for the test followed by testing. On Thursday we took our Eastern Europe map test. On Friday, we began our last chapter of the year which will cover the Eastern Europe region.

Science: We studied Newton's First, Second, and Third Laws. The students were able to come up with practical applications fitting to each law.

Picture Caption: In the small picture to the left, the students are practicing what they will do during a tornado drill. (To the picture below) The last hour of the day on Friday was spent outside! The whole school teamed up and cleaned a section of the campus. Our class was assigned to the Bible Garden. Check it out periodically over the summer as you are able. It is a beautiful part of our campus. We are very grateful to Bob Armstrong for keeping it beautiful through the season.
